I have a compost bin, is it likely to attract snakes?

Compost Bins and Snakes

A compost bin, if not managed properly, can potentially attract snakes. This is primarily because snakes may be drawn to areas where their prey, such as rodents, are present. Rodents are often attracted to food scraps in compost heaps or bins.

To minimise the likelihood of attracting snakes to your compost bin, follow these tips from our website:

1. Turn Compost Regularly: This prevents rodents from breeding and feeding in the compost.
2. Avoid Eggshells: Rodents are particularly attracted to eggshells, so do not add them to your compost.
3. Use Raw Food Scraps Only: Place these in a closed bin rather than an open heap.
4. Cover Food Scraps: Use materials like grass clippings or soil to cover scraps.
5. Place the Bin on Fine Mesh: This helps to prevent rodents from entering the bin.
6. Consider Alternative Systems: Compost tumblers or worm farms are fully enclosed and less likely to attract pests  .

All snakes are an important part of the natural environment as they reduce populations of some of their prey species, such as rats and mice.

This publication contains some simple tips you can use to discourage snakes from your property. It also gives you some safety tips for avoiding, and dealing with, snakes.

Compost bins

Here are some tips for keeping snakes away from your compost bin:

- turn compost heaps regularly to prevent rodents feeding and breeding in them
- don't put egg shells into the bin/heap (rodents love them)

www.environment.sa.gov.au

Department of Environment and Natural Resources

FACT SHEET

- only put raw food scraps into a compost bin, not onto an open heap
- cover raw food scraps with other materials (eg grass clippings or a layer of soil)
- place the bin on a layer of fine mesh.

Consider the benefits of a compost tumbler or worm farm system to compost food scraps and help you avoid problems with rats and mice.

Remove or reduce hiding areas sheds and ground cover plants in the garden for shelter (and protection from cats, dogs, foxes and people).

How to reduce cover and hiding areas

Keep grass low. This will increase your chance of seeing a snake from a safe distance.

Keep wood heaps away from the house. Store wood in a secure shed with a concrete floor. This is also important if you live in a bushfire area.

improve this email to my team: Heya, we are implementing an emergency SMS system for council staff in situations where buildings need to be locked down, what consideration do we need to think about for the project cheers

Generating AI response...

Here is an improved version of your email, now aligned with the Australian Government Style Manual principles, such as clear structure, appropriate tone, and active voice:

Subject: Emergency SMS System for Lockdowns – Seeking Input

Hi Team,

We're implementing an emergency SMS system to notify council staff in situations where buildings need to be locked down.

Could you please share any considerations we should address as part of this project? Your input will help ensure we capture all critical aspects to make the system effective and responsive.

Looking forward to your thoughts.

Cheers,
[Your Name]

Explanation of the Improvements

1. Subject line: Added a subject line for clarity and to set expectations.
2. Greeting: Changed 'Heya' to 'Hi Team' for a professional yet friendly tone.
3. Conciseness: Removed unnecessary phrasing and improved clarity (e.g., separating the action and request).
4. Call to action: Included a clear request for input and explained why their input is valuable.
5. Sign-off: Retained the informal 'Cheers' for a friendly tone while maintaining professionalism.

how would I add a formula in that spreadsheet that counts the number of requests with Status of Open

Generating AI response...

To count the number of requests with a 'Status' of "Open" in this spreadsheet, you can use the COUNTIF function in Excel. Here's how you can add this formula:

1. Select a blank cell where you want to display the count (e.g., cell M2).
2. Enter the following formula:

'''excel
=COUNTIF(E2:E21, "Open")
'''

Explanation:

- 'E2:E21': This is the range of cells in the 'Status' column to check. Adjust this range if your data extends beyond row 21.
- '"Open"': This is the criterion to count only the cells containing the word "Open".

3. Press Enter to see the count.

The formula will now show the total number of rows in the 'Status' column that have "Open". Let me know if you need help refining this further!

Transcription of audio file: Your hands lie open in the long, fresh grass. The finger points look through like rosy blooms. Your eyes smile peace. The pasture gleams and glooms neath billowing skies that scatter and amass. All around our nest, far as the eye can pass, our golden king cup feels with silver edge, where the cow partially skirts the hawthorn hedge, to its visible silence still is the hourglass.
